

OUR JOURNEY SO FAR

One with God is majority. May the name of our God be blessed both now and forever... Amen. We have so far managed to meet many families in this our mission and God has actually been doing great things in their lives. Some of our hosts were recently discharged from the hospital as Ebola free persons after they had followed our advice to them during our house to house awareness. It's a thing of great joy for us and a thanksgiving to God.

According to the parish priest, the Archbishop was very grateful with our contributions to his charity initiative. According to him, the current situation of our country at the moment is a thing of pity and we need more prayers and work towards it. "Faith and Work" Faith without a GOOD WORK is Dead... he encouraged us to continue as much as we can afford and contribute in this fight against this Ebola Virus because it has caused a lot of damages to the nations and even the church in Liberia.

This our last journey was not easy due to the trials and challenges we faced. In the recent times, there have been rumors of some bad group of people poisoning the water wells in the name of sanitizing it and that has killed some people in the various communities. So this made some of the villagers we visited in Gwaa village (Bomi County) raised a suspicious idea about us and raised an alarm which called the attention of the other villagers. They interrogated us with the police about our mission. We explained our mission to them with some old pictures I was having on my phone. We were detained until later in the evening when the officer in charge (Mr. Kamara) of that particular police depot came to free us after their investigation on the other families we visited. We were told to use some of the items we give out to the families just to make sure that they are not poisoned. We did by washing our face and our hands with those materials (Tarr soap, chloride and chlorine). All these made them to believe that we were for good and not for destruction. This was followed by with a deep apology to us. The news about some of the health workers who were killed and displaced in Guinea during their normal house to house routine on Ebola made us to be more traumatic during the incident but God really saved us. It was not easy for my companions to accept the terrible experience but I tried to let them accept it in good faith bearing in mind that our main aim is to please God and save lives as much as we can. We should take it as part of life and more blessings from God.

New Mission Trend

According to the newly arrived foreign health experts from America and Europe, there is a big chance of surviving Ebola illness if they are given a proper treatment and care with these items:

1. Blood (If the patient is transfused with fresh blood from the blood bank, they will definitely be cured. Even, the Ebola survivors are advised to donate blood when they are fully recovered for their blood is also very important for the recovery of the other affected patients).

2. Food (good nutrition can help to fasten the recovery)
3. Beds and Matrasses (there are more patients than the beds facilities in the hospitals which has led to the refusal of new patients. This can cause more spreading of the virus if there is no accommodation for new patients)
4. Health workers (more people are needed to work as health workers in the hospitals and this will cost more as in the payment of the salaries)
5. Protective materials (the health workers need this material for their work so that they do not contract the virus as they do their job)

This has been proven and confirmed by the foreign health experts that were brought from America and Europe and some parts of Africa (Uganda and Congo) and has been successful so far in the treatment of the Ebola patients.

We have decided to help enormously in this area as it is the urgent need of the situation. So we are going to be contributing more to the Archbishop's charity inline to help in the buying of these materials and making sure that it reaches to the Ebola patients directly and freely. This is because we cannot reach directly to the isolation centers as the case maybe since the Archbishop's charity has been of great help for us in reaching directly to the isolation centers.
